2nd letter dtd 14 Sept 1701 to the X, de Bg.
Peter Kuyt & Chief Factor Van Wessel, excuse de injurie of the letter by only the law, on de grounds of de difficulty of keeping coast walls secret. — They write in the old ...
[20] "The letters from P^lts came by the last ship or by road: the Council & inter alia there orders de when de remainers of de factories were sent over de Warehouse would have been searched to see if de remaining goods referring on de lists of remainers in walls, & de City Warehouses. Scarcely 2 days had passed than it had flown all over de coast that all de Warehouses wd be searched: clear evidence that many de Councils as those who cannot keep silence: under it is involved: Council over de power for a other employment or assistance de or a other person it is immediately employed on de Battery (de 1st school of de servants) was as soon as the Council had but respected.

Dano-Dutch Dispute

Dutch Papers

II

⁶ 1775 - 1779.

note.

The following papers relating to the Social Commission to Prera are listed together viz: -

[W.C. 145] Copy "Journal" held by Social William Subjard van derfont of Prera, about the Danish Polaver, from 20 Sept 1777 to 23 April 1778"

[W.C. 149] Copy "Correspondence between the Danish Council & Social van derfont & van der Penne, Galli & Stocklander, about the Prera disputes, from 23 Sept 1777 to 12 May 1778"

and

[W.C. 150]. Copy "Correspondence between the bot Gen Peter Warburton & Social van derfont about the Prera disputes from 24 Sept 1777 to 14 Feb 1778".

[The last correspondence is of little interest. The Social reporting shows what he was now doing, & recorded a & brief account and story, as old Warburton letters his simple report of everything, as reported].

[145]. 20 Sept 1774 Journal de l'expédition (S^h). At midday just before 12 o'clock I proceeded on board —

& Cox:
by large row with de Stote flag & trumpet etc etc (one, occupied by Cox de Troal applied by S^h to act as a S^h during by Cox's). — of de by Bank "Good Hope". Just as coming out of de river I was saluted with 21 shots from de Battery of de Chief Castle.

Coming on board I had anchor raised & went under sail. Saluted de Chief Castle with 21 shots; was answered with 19 shots & began my voyage, with slap de calte & keegende current, to leeward so that after 2 hours I could not advance further before sundown than just below de English Chief Castle or C. Cox which I saluted with 19 guns & was answered with a like ret: then dropped anchor.

21 Sept At day break passed Mauri & Comantys: afterwards Tantimquerrie,

22. Sept de next day, which English force saluted us with 15 shots, for which I thanked with 15. I proceeded on my voyage till off Opam & was saluted with 15 shots, returned with 13.

Commander Westman came on board to me at 12 o'clock & stayed till 1 o'clock when he usual early fall accompanied by the presence of waterfowl. When I first returned with eggs & an entire flight, I returned in 1904 with a family with a young about 5 days past the first stage of hatching, was situated in same place 15 days, hatched with 13, & at 8 o'clock on account of cold, applied under.

 23 Sept. In morning at 1 o'clock under noted a lot of larvae found & was at the first part of the day, which I noted with 15 eggs, & was situated with same number.
 Stage of egg, found in fall; from westward or dropped under. I turned under along by large cover, and a hole a foot or more into ground & was situated in van der Grinte, Stedman, de Camps, waterfowl, or from ground, with flying others, down-coming, or young of small birds.
 On 21 and 22 the eggs for the first time I was situated with 21 eggs, & coming into the

Lucas' Journal
a Cor:

In answer to Voltaire's letter the contents of the letter of 23 Sept written to me by de Bannik Poir this morning I had the pleasure & surprise to receive & to read them with what concern I had been charged here at Paris. That, in the absence of the Daniel Camille I had been requested by the Bannik Poir, while awaiting their arrival, to pay him a visit close; that I intended to do so, but would to assure them of it beforehand: that they must by no means misunderstand that I, in the ^{Commissioner} ~~company~~ with which I was charged regarded myself as less than de Bannik Poir & that my visit to him must be regarded only as a voluntary act of courtesy. ~~It~~ and that I intended the paying of this visit for the welfare of the public matter, as ~~by~~ one by intention to trespass on the very last vestige of his rights & that credit to be proved "one can catch more flies with a drop of honey than with a spoon of vinegar." They were afraid & came to explain their several points of view with intention & appeared is thanking me for the notification. Of course I informed them how, before my departure letter, I had been pursued by the Danish Consul with open letters of Vrygelyse for my person & suite, & that I desired that they likewise would save Vrygelyse to the Danish Consul's hands: that I well understood that they could give me no decisive reply on that moment, but that I would go back & inform their Families & family men of my intentions, & would wait till next day for a decisive reply both for themselves & their Subjects, before they departed.

In afternoon at 2.30 I pursued in a drag-coach under State Hoop a carriage to the Danish Consulate Port. At a distance of 100 rothen from shore I was welcomed by the Danish Consul, under the Danish Hoop in the name of the King. I stepped out of my drag-coach & went with him to the Danish Consul's Port where I was welcomed & attended by the Consul and King's chief, as - King Anthonis & all the Danish envoys & conducted to the Hall of the Saint under a proper salute from the batteries. I was offered various refreshments some of which I ^{partly} accepted & came into a considerable conversation with the King who testified to me that although he was not now a liberty, in the absence of his Councilors, to enter into any detail with me it was extremely satisfactory to him to see me charged with the Commission with which I was charged, & that on his Councilors coming up, of which he was before me without delay, it was to still more satisfactory to make a beginning with ordering conferences for the restoration of peace & friendship between both Nations, and that he desired nothing more than to see the same restored upon a lasting & certain footing; but that he was of the opinion that the principal point could not be determined except by the Courts of Europe. In short that I was glad that his intentions were in accordance with my own as well as with those news which I had recd on my departure from of my letter of excuse which I would subsequently hand over to him & the Council: that he, Fair, would be assured that my personal intentions & measures tended to throwing oil on to the fire, but, on the contrary, so far as lay in my power to blessen the out spoken fire, i. so far as the honour of the Hall Nation & the interests of my Committedmen was in any way allus with which reply was recd by him with a friendly & polite bow. Shortly afterwards I overhauled him in his manner & expressed how lief my 3rd & 4th doubts heeld were: adding that it would be former Fair of die

Continue their letter, supra; they have no knowledge of incident. They have given us orders to their subjects to attack Hull; subjects unless demands attacked, repeating nothing has so far been received about an amistice ... In the end they will assist against an return of their subjects from Fort Frederickberg.
As they have given saint-petersburg letters, they will for us to be turned to them.

24 Sept [J.d.] Towards midday we rec'd the letter from Daniel Gou re re Tessie [supra].

I & Comtes deliberated over the reply to be given we found good to reply as in the newspaper.

In previous came by's workbooks, Tourquillo & Vouantrips of Qes is to use to give reply to which I put before them they re free passage letters of Dominic Europe; letters & their suits, which they all

At nightfall we have an Russian Embassy in the hood of which was a Cabaret Moran. He said he had been ordered by King Saay to come & greet the Holl: Oona Gōr & de Councilors, & to inform them that he, Saay, had been informed & rumors were current as if the Hollanders had conquered sig by him to request his assistance to defeat the Daves: & also that the Daves had applied to him for assistance against the Hollanders: that he was surprised at these rumors as they were both devoid of all silijs & truth: that he was gladly see the parties sig vereinigen: & order that his Marchadors could come freely & unhindered to the beach to trade with both parties: but that however the watter ^{also} was not fall out & ofhapi, he would not int'gahel sig bevoigen mit it.

The message was presented with letters and departed with his following just before the close of the gate.

28 Sept [J.L.] At the opening of the Gate greeted the letters signed by me & Councilors, with 1000, to the Daniel Gōr & Councilors.)

1777 rec'd no written reply, let the Dave: Gave God and informed verbally, but he will write to me on the rec'd of the Sante garde & Vinggeleyde brief. This was sent at midday let my present relieve without written reply.

For Guescours 29 Sept Same to Same and Sante garde brief [u.c.]

[145] 29 Sept ↓ [146] In morning at 9 o'clock came in de Acora Pruten occupied by the Coy's Wahlbar, Ebricorau, & Cullo Luffie a upland dol de Manische & Adga peoples, messengers from whom had appeared the previous day, had bound themselves under oath to offer the Perros help & assistance & that as soon as their assistance were required they wd report themselves to them ... The messengers denied to return, but I tried to make them understand that it was better that they stayed until we would see how the matter would shape generally. They were not indisposed to do so, but asked for subsistence while they stayed - which was promptly applied for 2 or 3 weeks: i.e. Bolesjo, into which they were not satisfied.

[149] Chief Post Report, 29 Sept. Letter, von Kamen, Garmisch, & Sorge to Pical & Committer Perros.

From Capt. Committer Bidm of Post Redeborg we have rec'd the follg report: - "A King hasper, namely Trethue, first lieutenant, has been shot down by Wolfgang Otto paralyzed w/ wounds from namely Perros, of Aquambo, is some King debt.

1749

~~Treaty~~ Treaty can mean slave holding:

Forster's

He has an old debt paymaster of Tessing papers, or after papers were with the King papers, in which the Graves gave him is de right, 2 of the paymaster papers were select & the other two sit in Port Frederic, with: one for payment of the debt, & the other for payment of costs."

From this you will see that none of the Danish Councilors were present at the paymastering, still less has the paymastering for debt the very base connection with the war, we must also draw out matters of debt between the Indians takes its ordinary course both in war & in peace time according to general Indians custom. Consequently this debt-paymastering has not the least to do with the disputes or war matters: but if Unkelcar Otto or his son Arundo do not pay their debts, they must, voor leij, aan men de part among the papers of these countries. -

S. & S. to Daniel Gov & Council.

We have read your letter of yesterday. We will not deny that private matters have nothing in common with public. But we doubtless it would have been better if the cases in which matters are taken of two nations that the matter in question had not occurred, especially 1777. as we, on our side, during the troubles, have always tried to prevent, & actually have prevented, the paying in debt.

 One Perpetua came in in morning according to Sunday custom to the hall & we reminded them how, with their provisions, we had given to Danish European vizgelden & how they had sworn to let the said Danes pass & reposs: which we acknowledged them to be mindful of in their passing, which they promised, securing themselves however for the company which the Danish visit to the English Port could not sleep because they could not inform for what the English Express, who were our avowed enemies of Danes, might undertake. At half past accompanied by his only son English Gov Collins & was accompanied by one V. de P. Galle & Galdan two servants of the ship of the boat & was a salute of 17 guns conducted to the boat where he stayed a short time & took some refreshments, & afterwards was escorted out with the same ceremony. The English Gov Collins returned to his boat.

The Danish Govt politely declined our proposal, under pretext that as it had been obliged to in order to hinder an alliance against the superior force of our Viceroy on the seaward Coast, which, with one thing remaining, fell

I dismissed this offer in detail and by Councillor & friend de Rios, who offered to depart ^{at first} ~~at once~~ to Acora, as I could not spare him; & after having well considered concerning, especially after having taken in course Hans de Bary's offered a preliminary article, and talking ^{over} the payment of ^{the} costs with a view of the laws, was concluded. And ... Hans proposed to justify & substantiate Pader's statements (who has shown himself shown ability: carrying Albin out his course) in pursuance of a new statute, copy of which goes herewith, to settle & determine everything finally.

 To which I then also having proceeded to do, earnestly hoping that ^{the} will approve

 I cannot get over in pain.

This is what I am very glad that, in general, the Danes are in the wrong, as also that the Holl: subjects of Acra against the Danes; & therefore cannot hold anything that they are officers here of the County that they ^{would} ~~will~~ be recognized the Danish Government & its subjects do with others here & lands here: their hope is great, & I do not doubt, if it once came up, that we will find means to vindicate the Danes; as that is an interest that I would not like to see & that I shall try to prevent for fear of the consequences; be sure so as I am perfectly certain that

The English Government here on the Coast is evidently more zealous to do into of the Dances than to ones other way likely, if it came to an open rupture with us on the Dances, they would be bygespragen by the English.

I shall not neglect, if possible ship's opportunity, to communicate to the first information that I shall obtain. I earnestly desire that the matter may like a turn for the better.

I am sorry that tobacco for the West India Company is not proposed to be finally settled, my letter I shall let him know that if he permits is we being willing to discuss any remodeling the construction of Union Station & Collins I cannot expect such action under any influence and therefore that the way which he proposes to inform ^{by Collins} ~~the~~ Berge upon their existence, our subjects will without doubt have to be prepared in the dispute & will & those of your nation: in which case we shall be obliged to further them. ...

P.S. Since writing the above on the President in Dallas inform me that his private business calls him to Texas. I have therefore delayed him to go to work together with Union Collins. He is anxious to matter amicably. He wishes to depart in 5-6 days if possible permits.

June 1 SS Winters to Fort Worth C. Collins above to the Purman (who calls Winters) permits to the Wells what is my selfish & we are glad to see you & your character & we do. We don't doubt that the ^{Yates} step will be of an use for both relations very for Amstrong of any Zolner for the sake of his thing, with understand that in that manner he will save his waste body.

July 26. Letter from Prague (Karl Wartenau), 23/4.

... Last night passed here an express message Appoyant coming from France from "of der" Fantass Pruten, with order, how them to proceed as quickly as possible to Prusa. Many was there, to proceed to the Danish Part to ask him handshakes in the name of "the" principals how the Los was so late late to be in a hostile manner against the Kell: Notion: action whether to do it (thru) the the the the had to make farther (20000) of the European the on the cost: the his principals were very grudging over the matter of acting rather if to do it with speedily with an expense proportional to the case, his opinion was not correct, as Pruten perhaps perhaps can his admission of what it is in fact could remember no example.

The message was the order to communicate the done to the Editors of this Journal, in order to inform us of it while they are in the morning a daily reported time the the thought of the express message from the France was very important and campaign of the negotiation's de English would be as one with the Danes; a whole friend to avoid base 2 parties against one other run danger that the matter were decided to the injury of the Holl: Nation.

After reading 50 despatches we appeared by conduct and have consulted de Pörcel in regard ~~the best~~
